The Saint Paul Police Department Professional Development Institute is hosting "First Line Supervisor" by International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP).

As societies change, so do their elements, and policing is no exception. Both the work-place and communities reflect increasing diversity and different value systems, officers are empowered to resolve problems, and accountability for action has shifted. As police environments evolve, traditional assumptions regarding supervisory roles are now challenged. Like all change, this is inherently uncertain and stressful but presents a significant opportunity for the responsive, adaptable supervisor.

This course, designed for newly or soon-to-be promoted supervisors, will enhance the supervision skills required to successfully manage today's organizations.
